

The table below shows how we coded essential workers in Blau et. al (2021). It includes the industry name, 2017 Census code, and 2017 NAICS codes.

The Column titled “March 2020 Essential” is our interpretation of the March 2020 DHS guidelines.

The Column titled “March 2020 Essential excl. Shutdown” excludes industries that are essential in the DHS guidelines but were basically shutdown. We use Vavra 2020 (<https://bfi.uchicago.edu/insight/finding/shutdown-sectors-represent-large-share-of-all-us-employment/>) to define basically shutdown.

Frontline was coded based on occupation groups conditional on being essential. We used Dingel and Nieman 2020 (<https://www.nber.org/papers/w26948>) to identify what percentage of workers in each occupation group could work from home. If less than 33 percent could work from home, we coded them as "frontline". These groups are highlighted in blue in the second table (or the second tab of the excel sheet).

The Column titled “December 2020 Essential” updates the definition of essential to the December 2020 guidelines. The industries added in this update are highlighted in yellow. We also add education to frontline when using the December guidelines as well even though they are above the threshold as many teachers are now instructing in person.

Note to user: If importing the excel sheet, you can drop if March 2020 Essential is missing and then you will be left with just the rows with valid industries and indicators and exclude the section headings.
